“ Connie and family,

I Remember When, I Remember Now

I remember when my Mom would take me to visit Auntie Anna. It was on one of those trips that my aunt let me go into Ken's room and look at his records. This was where I first learned about "West Side Story"--still a favorite today--and music my wife Patty and I used as part of courtship just three years ago.

I remember when I played little league baseball, and the times when Ken and Connie came to some of my ballgames and Ken thought I was pretty good.

I remember when I was a rebellious 18 teen year old who refused to go to college, and Ken got me an construction job at Insana Construction, putting in a new sewer system in a North Ridgeville neighborhood. Later on, this job would play a role in my deciding to return to school.

I reflect now on seeing Ken and Connie at the annual fundraiser dinners my brother Joe & Rosanne would throw for research for PBC, the rare liver illness that Rosanne has. Ken and I would always visit and catch up a bit on our lives. He gave me much encouragement throughout my life. We always had and still have that DiBlasio – Stinziano family heart bond.

I reflect how Ken has gone on before us to be with God, a place where there are no illnesses, no human frailties, now cheering all of us on. I rejoice in his rejoicing!

With Love and Condolences,
Dominic and Patty DiBlasio

“ Ken and I first met at the Perry Nuclear Plant construction days in 1979. He was a contract manager and I was a GE contractor. Our meetings about construction delays evolved into a long friendship of over 40 years. We worked together again as FirstEnergy employees. I admired his dedication to work and family. Always meticulous and ready to offer advice and counsel on life and family. Harriet and I will miss him dearly.

“ We were deeply saddened to learn of Ken's passing. I had known Ken since early 1984 and he was well respected in business for his fairness and integrity.

As a good friend, Ken always shared his warmth, hospitality, graciousness and a never-ending smile and good humor. I love this photo of Ken as that is exactly how I remember him - smiling and cheerful, as always.

We extend our deepest and most sincere condolences to his family and especially to his loving and devoted wife, Connie. Her loss is simply without words.

We pray that God embraces Ken and that He gives comfort to Ken's entire grieving family.
