“ Tim, or my Grandfather as I like to refer to him as, was one of the most significant people in my life. Hopefully I added to happiness in his life as much as he did to mine. I met Tim when I was in seventh grade. By grade eight I was making straight A's due to his excellent tutoring, teaching, and.... bribing skills. He taught me what a stock was and how to invest when I was 12 years old. Because of him I was able to attend St. Ignatius High School and was one of the first in my family to attend and graduate college. We did many things together such as going to Memphis Kiddie park - all the time! He would ride all of the rides with me, we played putt putt golf. Many days we went to Wendy's and would have chocolate frostys. On his birthdays and any other time for that matter we would sing to the Queen of England - he loved her! He was also a staunch defender of women and cared for people more than himself. Hopefully one day I can give to others in a manner in which he gave so much to me.

“ Mr. Leiden was my sixth grade teacher at SS. Peter and Paul School in Garfield Heights. I think he was the first male teacher at that school. I was a very quiet shy student and will never forget the time my best friend asked him who was the better student and he told her in front of me that I was better in math. This might not sound like much but for me it was huge. My friend always wanted to be better in everything and she convinced me that she was. I always thought Mr Leiden new this young shy girl (me) needed to build her confidence and in his professional way he did that. I always remembered him as making a difference in my life. I am sorry for your loss. Strangely, I never read the obituaries and for some odd reason I did today. I think it was meant for me to write this. My condolence to his family and friends. Cindy Kochan
