“ Aunt Joanne was the first and only adult to ask me to spend time with her growing up. She would let me sleep over, and she watched movies with me and let me pick. She taught me how to paint my nails. I remember telling my friends about my cool Aunt. When I would cry she would tell me she was sensitive too. She was also very funny and you could always count on her to send you a joke. She was the life of the party when I got married. She was one of the first people to meet my children. I'll always keep the great times with her in my memories.
