TO

“ I remember Grandpa Lou since I was in first grade. He was always welcoming to me and loved me like his own grandchild. My earliest memories of him are at his and Grandma's house while getting to know Darryl, Kyle, and Alyssa while growing up. There was always something going on at his house. I remember him teaching us to play Bombardment with the plastic bags and pins, archery in the backyard, marble races in the garage with the hand-made wooden tracks, and even the sunflowers on the side of the house he planted one year. Can't forget the GI Joes and Toss Across too, or the marks in the garage for all the grandchildren's heights. I have so many memories of just hanging out in the sun room in the back patio with him and grandma, playing games like Family Feud and even the weebles game with the golf balls where we used the lines in the carpet to roll straight, while listening to stories about the Railroad in the background with the family.

Grandpa Lou always had a rich set of stories - the most I remember being about the railroad and WW2, complete with books to show. There was always a new book it seemed. He read a ton! I remember his laugh after telling jokes. I remember the time he took us to McDonalds and the time we got in trouble in the van.

Aside from everything personal to me, I also grew to love the great family I was becoming a part of, the family him and grandma raised with many children and grandchildren. A family I never knew I would be a part of, and am very grateful to have to grown up alongside.

To the entire Albert family, I'm deeply sorry for your loss.

Grandpa Lou, thank you for the great memories.
