“ COMFORTING ARMS
(From Jean)

*When I was just a child, my mother and my dad Provided for my comforts with everything they had
I was daddy's little girl, he tried to keep me from all harm
How safe I felt when resting in mom and dad's comforting arms*

*Two stair-step brothers and a sister shared all my growing years
We would climb the walls together, hug, and calm each other's fears
We piled around our parents as they tried to go to sleep
We knew they never minded 'cause their love for us ran deep*

*As the four of us grew older, we never grew apart
And as our children played together, that sight sure warmed our hearts*

I'll always be a part of this family, living in your memories Through the good times and the bad, we still were family

*Don't fail to love those left behind, made of dust the mortal man
'cause life is short and blood runs deep, forgive them all you can
I'm free from pain and my body safe, resting in my daddy's arms
My soul is free from earth's restraints, and my Heavenly Father has welcomed me
With His outstretched, comforting arms.*
