“ Bob my other Father. Known from my whole life. A great tall man who was very intelligent, very caring very joyful, always would just spread joy and happiness. Always held down other people but no one really held you down. Well now your wings are out angel. Those are your wings! A whole lot more was waiting for you, and until we meet again.

“ I will miss our almost daily greetings and conversations for the last 8 years I worked with him at the Nestle factory. He was always willing to help when needed - never with complaint. We would exchange greetings (and conversation) and our response to each other when the other said "how are you today, my friend?" was always: "I'm doin' ok, and you know what we always say: OK is alright, and I'll take it." Then to end the conversation, he would always add "and now that I've seen and talked to you, my day just got a little better and brighter." And when I would say something like "Have a great rest of your day" he would always end with a "Far Out. Until then, friend." So much more I could say. I will always remember him and miss the brightness he brought to hectic days, and the calm he brought to me knowing that if I was frazzled, and needed him, he would always get done exactly what needed to be done. He has found his Peace. May his memory be eternal...and Bob, my Friend, I hope this next journey of yours will be the best "Far Out" experience you've ever had. Merry meet again, my friend. Merry meet again.
